UPCOMING EVENT: Art on the Spectrum

The Crocker Art Museum invites children on the Autism spectrum or with other developmental differences to a special morning with their siblings and caregivers. Participants can drop in to enjoy a variety of art explorations including mindful art activities, tactile art-making, music, and gallery walks. The program is designed to offer families an opportunity to relax and connect through art while building a sense of community for all those affected by Autism spectrum disorders. Social narratives, noise-canceling headphones, and a quiet space ensure the program provides a supportive environment. Click the link below to register. Recommended for children up to age 17.

Saturday, August 20, 9am-12pm

STAFF SPOTLIGHT: Stephanie Goodman

This month we are also celebrating Stephanie Goodman (she/her/hers) who is the newest member of the MTGO team! A graduate of East Carolina University, she majored in Music Therapy and minored in Hispanic Studies. She completed her internship with MTGO at the beginning of this July and is excited to remain and grow with the company. Stephanie's clinical experiences include rehabilitation centers, assisted living, and telehealth home care. She has additionally worked with young children, teenagers, young adults, and older adults, with a wide variety of need areas. ## STAFF SPOTLIGHT: Tori Gac

This month we are celebrating Tori Gac (she/her/hers) who is one of the newest members of our team! A New York native, she graduated from Nazareth College in Rochester in 2017 and then completed her internship at Raukatauri Music Therapy Centre, a not-for-profit music therapy practice in Auckland, New Zealand. Tori discovered her passion for Nordoff-Robbins Music Therapy during her internship and is in the process of completing her blended learning training through the Nordoff-Robbins Center for Music Therapy at NYU Steinhardt. She is also currently pursuing her graduate degree through Saint Mary-of-the-Woods College. Click here or her photo above to read more about Tori or any one of our amazing staff members!
